Department of Children & Family Services (DCFS) Distributes P-EBT Benefits

DCFS and the Louisiana Department of Education have received federal approval to distribute a second round of Pandemic-EBT benefits to eligible families.

P-EBT benefits will start rolling out in the summer to qualifying households with children in grades K-12 (including pre-K students in public and some private schools).

Students are eligible to receive P-EBT if they would normally receive free or reduced-price meals through the National School Lunch Program and School Breakfast Program, but haven't been receiving those meals during the 2020-21 school year because their school is closed or they are on a fully virtual or hybrid learning schedule due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Parents do not need to apply for P-EBT. Schools will report to DCFS which students meet the criteria for eligibility and whether they are on a hybrid or fully virtual learning schedule. DCFS will then issue P-EBT benefits on a Louisiana Purchase EBT card to each eligible student at the mailing address provided by their school.

Eligible students in hybrid learning situations will receive $48.23 per month, and eligible students in fully virtual learning situations will receive $120.71 per month. Benefits will be retroactive to Aug. 1, 2020 to cover the full school year, and will be issued in installments over the next few months. If a student's learning schedule changes, their benefit level will change accordingly as reported by their school. Parents who received P-EBT in 2020 do not need to order new P-EBT cards.

RoyOMartin Market Update

Home building is a local industry, but with benefits and setbacks stemming from outside variables across different parts of the country. The RoyOMartin Board Brief lays out the stats for their customers in key areas, namely the southwest region, so they can better understand the many factors affecting the local market.

TRENDS NATIONWIDE INCLUDE:

- Housing starts reached 1.739 million, up +30.2% YOY.
 - New homes sold reached 1,021,000 in March, up +66.8% YOY with a median sales price of $330,800.
 - The US housing market is short 3.8 million homes, according to data from Freddie Mac.
 - The mortgage market is hot, but approval is difficult. In a tight lending environment, 70% of mortgages in 2020 went to borrowers with credit scores of 760+
 - Small town USA has become the beneficiary of "Zoom towns" as workers move to find more space and lower rents.
 - Supply crunch in homes available for sale means more building is on the horizon. Buyers continue to flood the market. Buyers outnumber sellers by extensive margins, causing homeowners to stay put as there is no place to go.
 - February winter storms hampering construction fueled a strong building surge in March.
- There are now more realtors than there are homes for sale in the U.S., with early Q1 having 1.04 million homes

City of Alexandria Launches Emergency Prep Site Cenla Ready

The City of Alexandria is launching a new emergency preparedness site called Cenla Ready that includes emergency notifications for local residents.

Alexandria Mayor Jeffrey W. Hall said, "We are very excited about the new Cenla Ready site, especially the ability we now have to send targeted alerts to local residents.

Residents can sign up to get a variety of weather alerts. And while those are available from other sources, by registering their address, Cenla Ready users can also receive geo-targeted notifications, such as boil advisories, street closures, utility notices and other messages relevant to their specific location."

Cenla Ready will be the city's primary emergency website during hurricanes and other severe weather or emergency events. In addition to providing news and updates during local emergencies, the site is filled with content designed to help local residents plan and prepare for local emergencies including severe weather such as hurricanes and tornadoes, flooding, home fires and power outages. Tips are also provided for a variety of other emergency situations such as active shooters, cyber-attacks and incidents involving hazardous materials.

"We encourage everyone to sign up and register to receive alerts and bookmark the cenlaready.com page. The ability for residents to subscribe to receive geo-targeted alerts is what really makes Cenla Ready so unique," explained Special Projects Coordinator Jim Smilie. "

MJ Foster Promise Program

The Louisiana House of Representative approved the Senate Bill 148, also known as the MJ Foster Promise program. Named after the former Louisiana Governor Mike J. Foster, the founding father of the state's community college system, the program will provide financial support for adults to earn credentials that align to high-demand jobs in growing industry sectors, such as construction, healthcare, information technology, manufacturing, and transportation and logistics.

"The approval of Senate Bill 148 is about educating and skilling more of our people to allow them to go to work and make a living. It's about investing in our adults, and it's about developing the best Louisiana we can be. The MJ Foster Promise Program sends a clear message to adults: wherever you are on life's path, education and workforce training beyond high school is absolutely necessary for your personal success and to the future success of Louisiana," said LCTCS President Monty Sullivan.

The Program will be available to all Louisiana residents (21 years or older) with individual student awards available on a first-come, first-serve basis. To promote maximum accessibility, there will not be a merit-based barrier for the Program (such as a GPA requirement or an ACT score). Eligible participants must meet a family income threshold of 300% of the Federal Poverty Level or be unemployed or underemployed for six months.

Students will qualify for financial support for academic programs up to 60 credit hours or for several stackable short-term workforce credentials. In both cases, the award would only be available to the student for a period of three years.

The MJ Foster Promise Program will be administered by the Louisiana Office of Student Financial Assistance (LOSFA) at the Board of Regents and begin in July 2022.

CENLA Economic Dashboard

The CENLA Economic Dashboard is a service of the LSU College of Business to help business and community leaders monitor the economic pulse of central Louisiana.

Dr. Randall Dupont, Dean of the LSU College of Business, said, "New business growth is particularly strong in central Louisiana." Through May, new businesses established in Rapides are up 50% over the first five months of 2020 with 227 new businesses established so far this year compared to 151 last year. Fifty-seven new businesses were created in May alone compared 49 in April and only 20 in May of last year.

"The low unemployment rate combined with an expanding economy has resulted in a tight local labor market for central LA," continued Dr. Dupont. Employment in Cenla remained steady in April with a 5.4% unemployment rate compared to 6.6% for the state. Rapides reported a 4.4% unemployment rate, the same as the Alexandria MSA which includes Grant. For the twelfth straight month, the Alexandria MSA had the lowest unemployment rate in the state among metro areas with New Orleans reporting the highest at 8.1%.

Housing continues to show strength although there are some signs of easing. With active listing down 65% and pending listing up 44%, it is still a seller's market. Confirming this trend is the 20% drop in the number of days a house stays on the market which fell from 69 in April to 55 in May. For home buyers the good news is the average median listing price has come off its high, falling 6% this past month and 18% from a year ago. However, newer homes on the market are keeping the average listing price steady at $238,000. Lumber prices have not helped homebuyers. Although prices have fallen somewhat in recent weeks, the Lumber Price Index rose 16.5% in May and is up 100% from May 2020.

On-the-Job Training (OJT)

OJT offers businesses a cost-effective way to deal with the substantial investment associated with training new employees. Administered by Workforce Development Boards and with the assistance of the American Job Centers, employers hire certified individuals who can be trained to fit the employer's needs, right on the job.

Training will be provided by the employer and up to 50% of the trainee's wages are reimbursed to the employer during the training period. The length of the OJT program varies depending on the complexity of the job and the qualifications of the new hire. The new hire needs to be employed in a regular, full-time position. (This program can be used for employee advancements.)

Reduce Personnel Costs and Save Time. Local businesses have found OJT to be a beneficial tool in reducing personnel and other costs associated with training new hires. OJT saves time through referrals from a pool of pre-screened, motivated applicants, while the employer maintains control over the hiring process.

An example of potential savings is provided.

Trainee Wage	50% Reimbursement	Length of OJT	Savings
$11	$5.50	2 months	$1,914
$11	$5.50	4 months	$3,828
$11	$5.50	6 months	$5,742
